

NSW Residential Contract Rulebook

Rulebook 2 of 5 — Contract, Disclosure and Cooling-Off

Scope: New South Wales residential property sale contracts

Purpose: Draft engineering rulebook for identifying potential legal, financial, planning and document-review risks.

Important: This document is not legal advice and does not determine whether a contract term is enforceable. Rules must be validated against current legislation, official guidance and the complete property documents by a qualified professional.

1. Rulebook Overview

The rulebook supports a hybrid LegalBot workflow: an LLM extracts facts and clauses, deterministic checks identify potential triggers, and a human professional reviews the evidence and legal implications.

2. Proposed Rules

Rule ID	Check	Suggested Output
NSW-CON-001	Contract parties, property and price	Verify required fields
NSW-DISC-001	Prescribed contract attachments	Flag missing documents
NSW-DISC-002	Title, deposited plan and certificates	Request document verification
NSW-COOL-001	Cooling-off statement and exceptions	Flag for legal review
NSW-DEP-001	Deposit amount and holding arrangements	Verify contract terms
NSW-SET-001	Settlement date and completion conditions	Track deadline
NSW-DEF-001	Default, rescission and termination terms	Professional legal review

3. Suggested Rule Object

```
{ "rule_id": "EXAMPLE-001", "jurisdiction": "AU / STATE", "category": "REVIEW_CATEGORY", "trigger":
"Extracted fact or missing evidence", "risk_level": "REVIEW", "requires_external_verification": true,
"status": "DRAFT", "version": "1.0" }

4. Implementation Guidance

- Store the source clause, page number and extraction confidence for each finding.
- Do not infer compliance when a required document or fact is missing.
- Use current official legislation and government guidance for validation.
- Keep legal rules versioned and record their effective dates.
- Separate factual extraction, rule triggering and human legal review.
- Use official tax and planning services where calculations or property-level data are required.
